RAKUYŌ. Rakuyō shiū. A Collection of fallen leaves. A Chinese and Japanese dictionary. [Amacusa], 1598.
264 × 190 mm. 109 leaves including title, printed from movable type, on double leaves in the Chinese manner, on paper of Japanese manufacture. The title is within a border:—Racvyokv. | [Vignette of the emblems of the Society of Jesus, with the motto IESV NÑA REDĒPTIO.] In Collegio Iapo- | nico Socie tatis | Iesv. | Cum facultate Superiorum. | Anno M.D. XCVIII. | The last folio bears the date 1598 in Arabic figures at the foot of the last column.
The following account of this rare work is quoted from M. Léon de Rosny:—"Le dictionnaire intitulé Racvyoxv . . . fait partie de cette série plus nombreuse que ne le croient les bibliographes, d'ouvrages rarissimes, publiés anciennement par les Européens au Japon, soit en langue japonaise, soit en langue européenne, à l'époque où cet empire était si difficilement abordable pour les étrangers, et durant la période où toute relation fut rompue avec l'intériour. C'est un ouvrage précieux et sans la possession duquel les vocabulaires japonais-portugais et japonais-espagnols, publiés par les jésuites, ne peuvent être que d'un médiocre secours pour l'intelligence de la littérature du Nippon. Il se compose de troise parties; la première, qui occupe 63 ff., renferme un vocabulaire chinois, expliqué en japonais et fournissant les signes idéographiques qu'on emploie dans les textes sinico-japonais. La seconde partie, composée de 19 ff., est un court abrégé du Gyokben, dictionnaire chinois expliqué également en japonais, et disposé suivant un ordre de clefs. La troisième partie, occupant 23 ff., est un vocabulaire japonais-chinois, composé pour répondre aux besoins de ceux qui s'occupent de littérature japonaise, et conformément à des principes qu'il serait trop long d'exposer ici." The four folios which terminate the volume are occupied by an appendix relating to the titles of public officers, the administrative divisions, geography, etc.

Three copies are known of this work; (1) British Museum, (2) University Library, Leyden, and (3) the one described above, which was acquired in April 1863, and at that time was supposed to be unique, at least in Europe. See Serrurier No. 36, Brunet, Suppt. 387.

 No attempt is made to represent the native characters, the Japanese words being printed throughout in Roman letter. An abridgement was printed at Amacao in 1620, and the work was translated into French by Landresse and published by the Société Asiatique in 1825. The rarity of the original work is so great that besides the above copy I can only trace another which belonged to Langlès, bound in green calf. It passed from the Langlès collection into that of Heber, and was again sold in Paris in 1836 but its present owner is unknown to me.

ROGERS (Nathan) Memoirs of Monmouth-Shire, anciently call'd Gwent, and by the Saxons, Gwentland. Shewing when this county was subdued by the Romans, but never by the Saxons or Danes, nor by the Normans, till king Henry II. That this was the first place in Great Britain, in which Christianity was planted. That a college of 200 philosophers was first of all founded at Caer-Leon, the station of the Romans chief legion in this island, call'd Augusta Secunda. And that the first academy in Britain was at Caer-Went, the Venta Silurum of the ancients. With an historical account of the most important affairs there transacted. The several rarities of nature in this county, of its several kings and princes, and other eminent men born and bred therein. And that the kings of England and Scotland, since Henry VII. derive themselves from this country. With an appendix, of the case of Wentwood, with the severe usage and suffering of the tenants in the late reigns for defending their rights.

A few more pages were printed up to 44: but the proofs were not corrected, owing to the cessation of the Commission above mentioned. I have seen those proof-sheets, probably the only copy existing, in a volume belonging to the editor, James Hardiman, Esq. (one of the sub-commissioners) which book was sold at the auction of his library in Dublin, in March 1856, and purchased by the Royal Dublin Society. H. Cotton." Autograph and note by Henry Cotton. "This book, which was intended for a third volume of the Rotuli Cancellariae Hibernicae, was never published. It is very rare. The Record Commission was broken up when 372 pages were printed: an officer of the Rolls Office afterwards printed to page 596: but of these latter pages only a single copy is to be found; this in the Rolls Office, Four Courts, Dublin. H. Cotton. P.S. I find a second complete copy, in the library of James Hardiman, Esq. (the historian of Galway) one of the Sub-Commissioners, who probably joined Mr. Hatchell in its preparation and printing. This volume was sold, with Mr. Hardiman's library, by auction, by Sims in Dublin, in March, 1856, and was purchased by the Royal Dublin Society."

—— A Dissertation concerning the competition for the crown of Scotland, betwixt lord Robert Bruce and lord John Baliol, in the year 1291, wherein is proved, that by the laws of God and of nature, by the civil and feudal laws . . . the right of Robert Bruce was preferable to that of John Baliol: in answer to the author of a late pamphlet, intitled, The right of the house of Stewart to the crown of Scotland considered; to . . . Mr. Logans two treatises on government, and to three anonymous papers in the Scots and British Magazines. With an appendix, demonstrating, that the claim said to have been made to the crown of Scotland, by William first earl of Douglas, anno 1371, is without foundation.

 The first edition of this work in 4 vols., was published in 1656. The authors were the brothers Scévole and Louis de Sainte-Marthe, but it was completed and published by Nicolas de Sainte-Marthe, the son of Louis. In this second edition the name of Dionysius Sammarthanus alone appears on the titlepage of the first three volumes; vols. 4-13 are stated to be "opera et studio monachorum congregationis S. Mauri ordinis S. Benedicti [i.e. J. Thiroux, F. Hodin, B. Pétis de la Croix, J. Duclou, E. G. Brice, M. T. C. Du Plessis, P. Henry, J. Taschereau, M. Le Veau, and A. F. Prévost d'Exiles]." With the publication of vol. 13 in 1785 the work came to a standstill. Only 8 leaves of the fourteenth volume were printed, which in this copy are bound at end of the completed vol. 14. In 1856, '60, '65, Firmin Didot published vols. 14, 15 and 16 "condidit Bartholomaeus Maureau," thereby completing the work which had been interrupted for so long a period.

* This edition disputes priority with that of Wendelin of Spire printed in the same year, which last is generally considered the first edition of Sallust. The edition at present under consideration is supposed to have been printed at Milan and if so must be one of the earliest productions of the printing-press in that city. It is said to be in the same type as that used by an unknown typographer for the Servius in Virgilium, 1475, and the Dictys Cretensis of 1477. It is also notable as being an example of what may be described as "mixed sizes". It commences as a quarto and the whole of the Catiline Conspiracy is in that form. The Iugurthiae War begins as a folio but leaf 51 is quarto, 52 is folio, 53, 54 are quarto, 55 is folio, and 56 quarto.

* First and second issues of the first sterotyped book. "So long ago as the year 1744 there was a Sallust printed at Edinburgh, not in the usual mode of single letters, in movable types, etc., but with an apparatus of letters formed, as it were, with copper-plates, whole pages at once. The printer was Mr. William Ged, working goldsmith in Edinburgh. The title, substantially, as above mentioned, was as follows. . . . This we understand to be the present practice of Didot at Paris; which, referring to the Greek word, the adjective for such consolidation, he calls the stereotype."—(Old newspaper cutting.)

SAXTON (CHRISTOPHER) [An Atlas of the counties of England and Wales in 35 maps, coloured, designed by Christopher Saxton, engraved by Augustine Ryther and others.] [London, 1579.]

Fol. 16½ in. Title 1 leaf, Index 1 leaf, 35 maps engraved on double sheets.

The title, which is a beautiful piece of engraving, was the work of Remigius Hoogenberg. It represents Queen Elizabeth seated upon a throne beneath a Corinthian portico; above are the royal arms and two cupids holding laurel wreaths; on either side of the throne is a full length figure of a man; beneath is the following inscription:—Clemens et Regni moderatrix iusta Britāni | Hac forma insigni conspicienda nitet. | followed by 6 Latin verses within an ornamental border, and on either side is inscribed An°. Dñi | 1579. |

The Index is headed ❧ Comitatvvm Singvlarvm Isto Volv | mine descriptorum index, ordinem quo cuiusque inuaniatnz (sic) carta gra | phicarecte demonstrans. | The maps are numbered in the Index ✣, and 1-34, being 35 in all.

This copy Herbert III. 1649-52, Lowndes 2197, Wellesley 5595.

 In certain copies there is a different Index, commencing "Indicem huic operi tripartitum," &c. and a double engraved sheet forming two leaves, occupied by a plate of 84 coats of arms and "Catalogus Vrbium" &c. The maps are dated from 1574 to 1579 and appear to have been published separately as they were engraved, the title and index being added in the latter year on the completion of the work.

Dickson and Edmond 226, Herbert III. 1489.

 This collection of acts of parliament had been issued but a very short time when changes in the government caused a number of leaves to be cancelled and others printed in their place. The cancelled leaves contained acts relating to the Romish faith and practice and were distasteful to the Reformers who took this strange means of removing them from the Statute Book. It is a most rare thing to find a copy which has not been tampered with, and even the first and last printed leaves are of uncommon occurrence.
